FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The LifePoint Foundation donates $20,000 to the Portage Health Foundation’s Flood with Love initiative.

[Hancock, MI] The Portage Health Foundation’s (PHF) Flood with Love initiative will help homeowners get back into safe, healthy living environment. This initiative is striving to do the most good for the most people who have been impacted by the Father’s Day flood. PHF is pleased to announce their partnership with LifePoint Foundation, parent company of UP Health System - Bell, Marquette and Portage, on these efforts, which includes a financial contribution of $20,000. These funds will go directly back to the community to help those impacted by the flood.

“When a community works together, it’s amazing to watch what can be accomplished,” said UP Health System – Portage CEO Randy Neiswonger. “We were inspired as our neighbors worked together during the flood. As the Keweenaw continues to make its communities healthier, we are pleased to offer our assistance.”

“This flood has really shown what our community is capable of – incredible strength, perseverance, and a resourcefulness to get the community back on its feet,” said PHF’s Marketing and Communications Coordinator Chelsea Goodreau. “We are really grateful to have partners like LifePoint Foundation that have come alongside the community to help get folks back on their feet.”
